Chairwoman's Letter to Shareholders

1 September 2022 to 28 February 2023

Dear Shareholder,

I am writing to update you on the activities of BlackRock Global Funds ('BGF') over the six months to 28 February 2023. The BGF range comprised 103 Funds (each a "Fund", together the "Funds") as at 28 February 2023.

The impact of the coronavirus outbreak was profound across all aspects of society. In developed economies, it is clear that the worst of the impact is now over. However, there is an expectation that seasonal peaks and new variants could give rise to renewed travel restrictions, enhanced health screenings at ports of entry and elsewhere, disruption of and delays in healthcare service preparation and delivery and supply chain disruptions, which will create ongoing challenges. Widescale and comprehensive vaccination programmes have been put in place in many countries which have had a positive effect. Nevertheless, the impact of COVID-19 continues to adversely affect the economies of many nations across the globe and this in turn may continue to impact investments held by each Fund.

On 1 March 2022, due to the significant investment exposure of the BGF Emerging Europe Fund (for the purposes of the remainder of this paragraph, the "Fund") to Russia, the Board of Directors took the decision to temporarily suspend subscriptions and redemptions and conversion of all share classes and the determination of net asset values, pursuant to the Fund's discretion under the prospectus. At 28 February 2023, valuation, subscriptions and redemptions in the Fund remain suspended until further notice. Since January 2023, month-end indicative NAVs are being published on the BlackRock website. For further details see Note 1 to the Financial Statements.

Recent months have been characterised by continued high levels of inflation and rises in interest rates, but also signs that the economic impact of tighter monetary policy may be less severe than initially feared. The end of China's 'zero-COVID' policy, meanwhile, has helped to raise hopes for global growth in 2023.

A number of economic headwinds remain, however. In its World Economic Outlook Update, published in January 2023, the International Monetary Fund ("IMF") forecast an expansion of the world economy of 3.4% in 2022 and 2.9% in 2023 compared with 6.1% in 2021. The IMF added that the risks to this outlook were tilted to the downside due to tightening financial conditions, the ongoing conflict in Ukraine and the potential for a sharp rise in COVID-19 infections in China, among other factors.

After the steep increases seen in the early months of 2022, energy prices started to ease over the second half of the year, reducing some of the inflationary pressures in the world's major economies. The inflation rate in the US continued to fall over the period having peaked in June 2022 at 9.1%, a 40-year record, while the rate of price rises began to slow in Europe in the autumn. In the Eurozone, annual price rises hit a high of 10.6% in October but had eased back to 8.5% by February 2023. The UK inflation rate rose to 11.1% in October, which was also a 40-year record, before similarly dropping back in the months that followed.

Central banks extended their rate-raising programmes over the period. The Federal Reserve in the US increased rates in four of the six months under review, although the pace of increases started to slow. Meanwhile, the European Central Bank and the Bank of England also further tightened monetary policy, and additional rate increases were also seen in a number of emerging markets.

A series of COVID-related lockdowns in China continued to hamper industrial production and global supply chains into the autumn. Following widespread protests in November, however, Chinese authorities relaxed the country's pandemic-era restrictions, delivering a potential boost to international trade as well as domestic growth.

In the US and Europe, economic data was mixed despite fears that high inflation and rising interest rates could spark a prolonged downturn. While activity in areas such as manufacturing and construction fell back over the period, labour market performance remained largely robust and retail spending proved resilient. As a result, hopes rose at the start of 2023 that many of the world's major economies would be able to avoid a serious recession.

Stock market performance remained relatively volatile over the six months, even if overall losses were far less pronounced than those experienced in the first half of 2022. Signs of inflation peaking in the autumn drove significant gains in October and November, although investors remained concerned that positive economic data could provide central bankers with further justification to continue raising interest rates.

There was also considerable volatility in fixed-income assets during the period, with the US 10-year Treasury yield rising as high as 4.2% in the autumn before falling back to a small degree. Notably, the yield curve on US Treasuries has been inverted since autumn 2022: this means that short-term interest rates are higher than long-term rates. When yields rise, bond prices drop and investors saw significant capital losses. Higher-quality corporate bonds were similarly weak, with spreads over government bonds widening.

The assets under management ("AUM") in the BGF range fell 0.57% from USD158.7 billion to USD157.8 billion over the period, with strength in sectors such as energy, commodities and mining as well as financials offset by losses in certain equity and fixed-income investments.

Chairwoman's Letter to Shareholders

The weakest areas were in fintech and investing with a focus on income generation. The FinTech Fund declined in size by 28.9% over the period, with assets dropping from USD 415.6 million to USD 295.6 million, with sentiment in the sub-sector damaged by the collapse of a major digital currency exchange among other headwinds. Meanwhile, the ESG Global Conservative Income Fund, the Asia Pacific Equity Income Fund - which is due to close on 2 March 2023 - and the Emerging Markets Equity Income Fund all shed assets over the period.

A number of Funds with a focus on sustainability performed well, with the assets in the Developed Markets Sustainable Equity Fund rising 97.3% to USD 21.3 million and the Sustainable Asian Bond Fund increasing by 92.8% to USD 82.7 million. Commodities Funds also made significant returns: the World Gold Fund rose 14.1% to USD 3.8 billion, the World Mining Fund gained 12.5% to reach USD 6.0 billion and the World Energy Fund ended the period at USD 3.4 billion, an increase of 12.1%.

Regulatory change continued throughout Europe and a number of these developments could have implications for investors. Key changes included:

- ▶ As of 1 January 2023, the extended PRIIPs regulation has brought significant changes for the fund industry, which had previously benefitted from an exemption. UCITS KIIDs have been replaced with the revised PRIIPs KIDs requirements. Changes include the way risks, performance scenarios, and transaction costs are calculated.
- ▶ The European Union's Sustainable Finance Disclosure Regulation ("SFDR") came into effect in March 2021. It imposes new transparency and reporting obligations on investment management firms, both at a firm-wide level and at a product level. Certain parts of the framework were finalised in 2022 and came into force at the start of 2023, for example pre-contractual disclosures ("PCDs") were published as required under SFDR from 1 January 2023. At the same time, the EU is working on an EU-wide classification system or 'framework'. This taxonomy is designed to provide businesses and investors with a common language to identify to what degree economic activities can be considered environmentally sustainable. There are also moves to improve reporting, with the Corporate Sustainability Reporting Directive ("CSRD") due to be implemented from 2024 onwards. The Luxembourg government recently took further steps to encourage investment in environmentally sustainable funds, reducing the 'taxe d'abonnement' (subscription tax) for funds that meet certain environmental criteria.

Investment Adviser's Report

Performance overview

1 September 2022 to 28 February 2023

Market Review

The period began with renewed volatility in financial markets as fears grew that persistently high inflation and rising interest rates could lead to recession in many of the world's major economies. Towards the end of 2022 and in early 2023, however, equities rallied as inflation rates dropped back in the US and Europe, raising hopes that the pace of interest-rate increases may start to slow.

The decision by the Chinese government to bring its pandemic-era 'zero-COVID' policy to an end also provided a boost for global markets. The lockdowns imposed over much of 2022 in major cities such as Shanghai, Beijing and Chengdu had caused a significant slowdown in industrial production in the country and also had substantial knock-on effects on global supply chains. News of China's reopening drove gains in a number of markets, as well as, in the commodities sector.

While there have been pockets of weakness in certain sectors over the period, company earnings statements were largely in line or ahead of expectations, another factor that has underpinned share-price resilience. Financial companies, for example, benefitted from higher interest rates and the strong labour market.

Equities were particularly strong in Europe thanks to receding fears about energy prices and the high levels of exposure of many European manufacturing and luxury-goods companies to the Chinese market. By contrast, US equities performed less well on fears about continued monetary-policy tightening.

Although environmental, social and governance ("ESG") factors continued to be an important consideration, ESG-aware funds have struggled to replicate their successes of 2020 and 2021. However, while conventional energy producers have benefitted from price rises over recent months, there is likely to be an increased focus on energy security and sustainability in the near future.

The uncertain period for global bond markets continued. US 10-year treasury yields, which move inversely to prices, rose to a peak of 4.2% during October. This spike was caused in part by investors' strongly negative reaction to controversial tax-cutting plans set out by Liz Truss's government in the UK in late September. Yields on UK 10-year gilts rose to 4.5% before falling back towards 3% by the end of November. Index-linked bonds, which move in line with inflation expectations rather than actual price rises, also saw significant losses during much of the period.

Outlook

While the global economy's recovery from the COVID-19 crisis was not expected to be plain sailing, 2022 delivered an array of challenges far beyond any that had been forecast in 2021. The pandemic left a difficult legacy of high government debt, supply-chain problems and rising inflation, and these problems were compounded by the crisis in Ukraine, with high commodity and energy prices weighing on households and businesses across the world.

Central banks have been forced to rapidly tighten monetary policy with the result that growth rates have started to slow. There are fears a number of major economies will slow considerably in 2023, creating significant uncertainty in terms of the growth outlook. Even if inflation has reached a peak, business activity is under severe pressure and governments have revised their gross domestic product ("GDP") forecasts lower. A prolonged downturn has the power to destabilise markets in the year ahead and will certainly affect the type of sectors that do well. However, economic data from early 2023 suggests that inflation expectations are starting to recede, and it is hoped that central banks may soon be able to slow the pace of interest-rate rises.

Despite markets having fallen substantially since early 2022, the corporate sector has remained reasonably resilient to date. This has left valuations looking more attractive. Undoubtedly, there are companies that can weather the current storm and do well in spite of any looming economic weakness. Equally, higher bond yields have left fixed income looking better value than it has done for some time. Ultimately, while there will undoubtedly be challenges in the months ahead, so too will opportunities emerge.

Disclosed in the table below are the performance returns for the A Class Non-Distributing Share Class for each Fund, net of fees and expenses, which has been selected as a representative Share Class. Performance returns for any other Share Class can be made available on request.

Calculation methodology is based on industry standards.

Past performance is not a guide to future performance and should not be the sole factor of consideration when selecting a product. All financial investments involve an element of risk. Therefore, the value of an investment and the income from it will vary and the initial investment amount cannot be guaranteed. The Fund invests in a large portion of assets which are denominated in currencies other than US dollar; hence changes in the relevant exchange rate will affect the value of the investment. The performance figures do not consider charges and fees that may be levied at the time of subscription or redemption of shares. Levels and bases of taxation may change from time to time. Subscriptions may be made only on the basis of the current Prospectus, of which the most recent annual report and audited financial statements and interim report and unaudited financial statements form an integral part, as well as Key Information Documents (PRIIPs KID). Copies are available from Investor Services, the Transfer Agent, the Management Company or any of the Representatives or Distributors. The BGF range is only available for investment by non-US persons. It is not offered for sale or sold in the US, its territories or possessions.

The Funds are not registered for sale to the public in all jurisdictions. Further details on distribution of shares of the Funds are included in the Authorised Status on page 3.
